the recent austerity measures currently adopted in numerous european countries assume that a rise in public debt should automatically result in cuts to social programmes and the privatisation of inefficiently managed resources this type of reasoning is being used to justify the destruction of social rights of citizens for the profit of the private sector resulting in more limited access to the most fundamental resources such as water nature housing culture knowledge and information mainly for the most vulnerable members of society such a view informed solely by short term growth and profit cycles is endangering access to those resources not only for current generations but for future ones as well this book is an attempt to
